Alistair Darling's budget will not help the majority of SMEs to survive 2009. That is why business experts from around the South West have put together this event to help SMEs gain useful information on how to not only survive 2009, but even grow.

Starting at 4:30pm and finishing around 8:00pm with finger buffet provided.

Business Advice - This event is designed to give SMEs useful, easy to implement advice on a range of business disciplines. There will be several seminars throughout the event which are optional to attend.

Networking – We expect 60-100 businesses to attend. Developing good business contacts is important at the best of times, during a downturn it is essential. There will be scheduled networking sessions designed to ensure you get the most from the event.

One on One Advice – Although each seminar is designed to give best advice you can use immediately, sometimes the personal touch is needed. Throughout the event experts will be stationed away from the seminar area to allow specific challenges to be addressed.

Refreshments – A complimentary finger buffet will be provided to ensure that energy levels are maintained. Tea/coffee and water stations will also be supplied throughout the event. Another good opportunity to network with old acquaintances or new contacts.

The cost of this event is just £12.50
