

Simon Ward Photography

“A hobby that became a business is how Simon Ward Photography began life just over 3 years ago.

Having over 16 years experience in the retail and B2B sectors I decided to combine the knowledge I’d built up over this time with my passion for photography. Originally from London, I’d worked in sales management and training roles primarily in the mobile communications industry for companies including Dixons Group and Orange. I then joined the fitted furniture company, HomeForm Group, as a Regional Sales Manager before returning to mobile communications but this time in the B2B environment as National Account Manager.

Simon Ward Photography is customer-led from the outset; indeed the motto of the business is ‘Photography That’s All About You’ and much of my work comes from personal recommendation. I also have many corporate clients both locally and further afield. My work includes website, corporate portraiture and event photography for some of the UK’s largest house-builders, marketing companies, hotels and estate agents. I am a member of the Royal Photographic Society, the Society of Wedding & Portrait Photographers, and the Society of International School & Event Photographers. I am also a published freelance photographer for the Salisbury Journal and a supporter of Salisbury District Hospital’s Stars Appeal.
