

Are you looking for a talented graduate?
Could your business use an additional member of staff with part of their salary paid?

If you can identify a specific role that a smart graduate could handle, Bucks New University's Graduate Internship programme will give £1,200 towards their salary for twelve weeks.

We will recommend graduates with the skills and knowledge to fit your brief, giving you a field of degree-qualified candidates keen to apply their talents in your workplace.

The employer contribution of £1,200 represents six weeks of paid work (minimum wage), the second six weeks is covered by the project to complete the graduate's internship.
